

If using broadband over power lines will interfere with ham operators and other emergency & security issues, then I recommend this technology be postponed until such a time that the interference issue can be resolved.