

I am opposed to the electric utilities carrying internet/broadband traffic. As a ham radio operator, I am aware studies have shown this will generate interference in the hf portion of the spectrum where I operate. The cable companies and other providers are already meeting this need without all the problems the power companies will create. The idea has already been shot down in Japan. Thank you for considering my views.

Mike Anderson
K8IW