

The current plan should go forward. Let the media companies kick and scream all they want.