

For the last 10 or so years I have been a radio ham (N2JXN). I am a plumber by trade. I became interested in radio and electronic by being able to talk to other people from all over the world. And it seems to me that in times like these the this is a needed idea. I ham learned many things about electronic and radio. I achieved my extra class lincense.

I am not against the BPL issue but I think that we need to study the tech of it. If it indeed interferes with the radio frequencies the we as hams enjoy. What a great lost this would be. I know that I am only one person and this will proble fall on deaf ears. But I think that this is an issue theat U really need to look at.

The lost to young kids looking for a hobby in todays world. What a great hobby to talk to and realize that other people in other countrys r the same as us. AND to know the other person is a 99% trustable person. Not so on the internet. Please don't let somthing as important as this be a matter of money. One person and make a difference. Great men come from small starts. Thanks
