

I recently inquired when KPNZ-TV in Salt Lake City would begin broadcasting a digital signal. The response I received from Kurt Gentry, General Manager was: "We currently are not licensed to broadcast a digital signal. We have to wait for the FCC to open another digital window which has not been announced as of this email." So my question is, "Is the problem with the stations or with the FCC?" Put a date on it, open up the frequencies and let's get on with it!
