

To Commissioner Powell:

Dear Mr. Powell,

The Super Bowl incident regarding Janet Jackson should be communicated to the American public as a dangerous threat to our global security. Janet Jackson's actions on television, dressed in demonic black, surrounded by half naked performers, is exactly what the extreme Islamic element wants to see to further their interests in destroying our culture and way of life. It enhances their agenda portraying America as Satan's kingdom. You and I know that the media hides behind the first Amendment. The damage from this event threatens our young people's lives in Iraq and beyond. I thought the event was tasteless, decadent and an outrage to every decent American citizen, black, white, red and yellow in terms of race. You need to explain that petty acts of sexual expression have no place on global television networks to protect the public and our brave young people serving and risking their lives abroad. These are times when such performances have to be weighed for the overall good of the public. It is not an act of destroying our constitutional rights. Rather a common sense rationale for protecting all of us from the scourge of Islamic fundamentalism. It is a dangerous world we live in. Let's all use common sense at this time!
