

I cannot believe how overbearing the "moral" people of this country have become. I am not some liberal wacko but a moderate Republican who thinks a boob on a halftime show shouldnt turn television and radio into some sort of Nazi broadcsting. It is time for people to start taking control of their (and their families) own lives and what is watched in their own homes. I am a big boy and can handle what I want to see and what offends me. And if it gets to the point that everything offends me maybe I will do something outrageous like read a book.
