

I am filing my opposition to BPL over power lines until the power companies can prove via testing that they will not cause harmful interference to other licensed services (police, fire, CD, amateur) emergency communications. Likewise, this is a two way street. These services could render BPL inoperative. Cable TV systems must meet strict EMC, EMI, RFI limits, and I expect the power companies to do the same. This is a similar situation to what the FDA sees: let's prove the safety of the item before we kill any patients.
