

neither i, nor my family, want broadband to extend to power lines. we do not believe this is necessary and could have disasterous results. there are enough broadband companies to deal with the growth of america. let them deal with outer areas in their supply and demand grid.