

Broadband over Power Lines is an excellent way to deal with high speed access for rural users. I use the term rural user very loosely here. I live 1/2 mile outside of Tulsa, OK (300,000+) and have been told there are no plans to bring DSL/Cable high speed to our area. This is a very important initiative to millions of Americans.