

I think BPL is a bad idea, for technical reasons, but also because the power companies need to attend to the grid and make sure we have secure and reliable electrical power. I would think the major power outage of the last year makes that clear.