

BPL should not be pursued. I am in complete agreement with David Coursey in his article: http://reviews-zdnet.com.com/AnchorDesk/4520-7298\_16-5123406.html?tag=adts

The electric companies have had the opportunity to roll out these services as long as the communications companies have. They dropped the ball, because it was never in their bag to begin with. Business is based of focus and I don't see a business model for an industry jumping into another industry as being too successful, no matter how closely related they are. Plus, this will only add confusion to the general populace. Please reconsider any notion of pushing this strictly for the sake of "competition". Thank you.

Cheers,
Tom Bayly