

I disagree with allowing broadband communications over power lines. The FCC needs to ensure that there will be NO interference with private, commercial, or government users of the RF spectrum. Until it can be positively confirmed that there will be no interference, this use of power lines should not be approved.