

I am very disappointed to see that BPL trials are being established in several states before sufficient interference tests and studies have been conducted.

BPL has the potential to completely wipe out a major portion of the HF (High Frequency) bands due to radiation from the telephone lines.

I don't recall extensive testing for mutual interference between services. Establishing BPL service without proper testing is asking for trouble.