

The FCC was created to regulate and minimize interference between the different radio services that use the radio frequency spectrum. It has been scientifically demonstrated that Broadband On Power Lines interferes significantly with any other HF spectrum radio service in the area that it is deployed in. It is the duty of the FCC, mandated by its basic reason for being, to see that Broadband over Powerlines does not interfere with the Amateur Radio service or any other commercial or hobby use of the radio spectrum.