

I feel as though the FCC has made one bad decision after the other. Instead of looking out for the American people it has pandered to the deep pockets. BPL has been tried in other areas with disastrous effect in terms of causing an increase in RFI, among other things. I am a licensed radio amateur who operates in the HF allocations and am very concerned about this inevitable increase in rfi both to my own operations as well as those of others, the least of which is emergency service. When BPL comes to my block, trust that I will raise a ruckus should I have any problems whatsoever.

I am very disappointed in the FCC.
