

It's clear from field tests that BPL will cause serious interference problems with users of many radio services, including government, military, ham and commercial users. This has all the indications of a widespread disaster in the making--a disaster that will severely impact public radio services and severely embarrass the FCC. Whichever aspect you care more about, this proposal deserves to be killed.