

I am very concerned that BPL will cause serious interference to High Frequency communication operations. My concern is based on over 60 years experience of Military, Commercial and Amateur communications and dealing with various types of interference. How will FCC control HF interference that will be caused by principle agencies?