

I recently heard that the FCC was looking at adding more spectrum to the 2.4 band. This would be great for us as we could use it, with all of the 2.4 phones, home users having wireless networks, and other wireless isp's it is hard to find channels that are not crowded. I am in full support of this type of move. Thank you.