

From everything I have read and heard, BPL presents excessive interference on the HF radio frequencies. This is a technology that is destructive to good HF radio communications. The internet is available through other media and BPL should not be adopted. If adopted anyway, it should AT LEAST have the strictest requirements related to the prevention of interference in the HF spectrum.