

I think it's wise to require an adequate amount of special shielding to contain the RF emissions from this proposed service.

Consideration needs to be given to all of the investment in shortwave radio that is in the world economy today.

There are other, less intrusive ways to deliver broadband.