

BPL? A very bad idea. Why would the FCC even think of going ahead with something with known problems of interference? It is very hard to put the genie back in the bottle. I would recommend that the FCC put an instant halt to BPL while there is still time. BPL needs further study and refinement before it can be of valid use without causing interference to other services including the homeowner.