Dear Commissioner Copps,

Emergency response communications have never been more critical, or more difficult.

That's because of a common problem on police, fire and EMS radios: interference. Interference, garbled or dropped communications, inhibits first responders from doing their jobs safely and effectively. Essentially, if first responders can't communicate, they can't help and may themselves be in danger.

There is a solution before the FCC: the Consensus Plan. Over 300 public safety organizations, local governments, and congressional officials support this Plan because it eliminates interference before it occurs and at no additional cost to federal, state or local budgets - or the American taxpayer.

The 300 Consensus Plan supporters that have filed with the FCC, along with John Walsh, host of America's Most Wanted, recognize the importance of communications for America's police, fire and EMS workers. This problem has existed long enough, and our first responders deserve better. I am asking you to help.

Please listen to the voices of public safety. Our neighborhoods, families and fellow public safety professionals cannot afford to wait any longer.

Sincerely,

angel hallam

Dear Commissioner Abernathy,

As a firefighter, I know how critical communications are to emergency response. Radios are our primary means of contact to receive instructions from the dispatcher, coordinate efforts with other on-scene officials and can be, at times, our lifeline. It is disturbing that my fellow firefighters and other first responders are struggling with 800 MHz radio interference. This is impeding efficient operations and placing lives at risk.

Simply put, this needs to be solved. The Commission has had nearly two years to research fully this issue. Now is time for a resolution. I join my public safety colleagues such as the International Association of Fire Chiefs in support of the only true solution available: the Consensus Plan. The Consensus Plan eliminates interference proactively by reorganizing the jumbled spectrum, which is the main cause of the problem. Furthermore, the Plan provides additional spectrum for public safety, and does all of this at no cost to public safety agencies, government or the American taxpayer.

Let's not let another day pass where lives are at needless risk. We need to implement the Consensus Plan now. Please do not let corporate special interests continue to derail this important decision. Nothing can be more important than the safety and welfare of our communities. My fellow firefighters and I hope we can count on your support.
