

It is my understanding that broadband over the power lines can cause interference to radio services such as amateur radio. There are hundreds of thousands of amateur radio operators who have made sizeable investments in order to provide an important public service. There are many other forms to provide high speed internet service which do not create interference with other services. For that reason I am opposed to creating a situation where so many people will have problems as a result.