

This action will cause such interference to radio services as to render them nearly useless. Emergency service during weather or other disasters will be also useless. It will not bring the internet to the masses as promised either.