

Dear FCC,

I am a ham radio operator, callsign KCOAKJ, and I'm very concerned about BPL. I work closely with several Emergency Management offices on communications projects. What are we to do when this BPL causes horrendous interference to our VITAL communications? The local power company has shown very little interest in fixing defective connections in our neighborhood, and I doubt they will be much more interested in future problems that arise from BPL.

I don't think benefit of BPL for a few outweighs the safety of the many.

Thank you,
Andrew Nabholz, KCOAKJ
