

In the matter of 03-104: The Fcc's consideration of Broadband Over Power line (BPL) the FCC should consider the workload of interference claims and requests that will be made after BPL interferes with Amateur, Commercial, Public Safety and Aeronautic frequencies. While individually the agency can begin to resolve them, once a system is put into place the floodgate of interference problems that the FCC will need to deal with may overwhelm the agency. All this for faster Internet service leaves something to be desired.
