

Hopefully there will be a quick and easy means to disable this protocol in the event of spurious emissions generated. Additionally, given the spread of cable and dsl broadband options is it really necessary to introduce this technology?