

As a long time amateur radio operator I am opposed to the authorizatin of BPL without full and complete testing to assure no interference with any radio service. There are sufficient alternate methods of internet access so there is no reason to allow quick authorization for a questionable method. If systems are allowed the owners will thereby have invested and will be reluctant to abandon even a bad system. Therefore no system should be licensed or authorized until full testing and assurance of no interference.

Art Mouton