

As a user of broadband wireless internet for over two years it seems to me that this is a more practical solution in providing the rural areas of our country with internet access. Power lines already are frequently polluted with radio frequency energy and adding BPL will only accentuate the problem and make it more difficult for public services and other users of the radio spectrum to maintain their systems. Thank you for your consideration; I appreciate your hard work with these difficult decisions. Sincerely, Steve Zumbrun.