

Broadband Over Power Line (BPL) needs to be studied further and rigorously tested before any implementation is allowed. It will most likely severely interfere with licensed high frequency operations and violate International Treaties that protect the high frequency spectrum.