

broadband over power lines will cause unacceptable radio interference in the 1-30 mhz region. there is no technical feat or protective device which will negate this interference completely.

since there are other modes of broadband delivery on the horizon, the use of the power grid infrastructure for this purpose is not necessary and will cause unacceptable interference with licensed services. please consider this option carefully- it could have very unpleasant effects on the radio spectrum and it's services.