

I think that BPL is ridiculous. Being a ham radio operator, it seems silly to wreck international communications to provide high speed internet access. I have no trouble with my cable internet access to require BPL. The FCC must stop the spread of this silly technology.