

As a hobbyist and re-seller of used test equipment I STRONGLY urge the FCC to reconsider BPL. Please have more independent studies regarding the interference that this BPL technology may cause. I currently use the internet on a dial-up but in the past I have used DSL, (we recently moved to another city) I would rather wait for the "fiber optic" link to come down my street than have a "band aid" technology such as BPL in the interim. Thank you for your time in considering this grave matter.
