

I have been following the BPL concept for some time now from the standpoint of being an amateur radio operator. I am also really concerned that giving the power companies this technology is giving the energy industry control of communications also. Do we need more Enron type problems? What is to be done about conflict of interest?