

I have 4 analog TV sets at various places in my house. I receive broadcast signals only. Your information indicates that I will have to buy expensive converter boxes for each TV or throw them out. This conversion to digital feels like a waste of resources to me. Thousands of analog TVs will end up in landfills. Government has no business mandating such a change which hurts those who can least afford it. Those who will profit from this change should be paying for the converter boxes.